In re: New Leadership Direction for Kentucky League of Cities

Dear Mayor Miller and Executive Board:

This is to express the view of the City of Flemingsburg, Kentucky, a member city of the League, by and through its Mayor and City Council, all of whom have signed this letter regarding the future direction of the League.

Given the recent negative publicity surrounding the immediate past and current acting Executive Director of the League, we are concerned that the public perception of the League is similar to that of several major national banks: BAD. We do not impugn Sylvia, Neil, or Bill personally; they have done admirable jobs over their years with the League. But we do think that the perception by the public is that the operational status of the League will not change unless there is new blood in its high executive leadership.

We will watch with great interest any change in direction that the League may take with respect to corporate governance, and hope for a change that will be noticeable by all citizens. We really want to remain an active member of the League!

May we count on the Executive Board to hire new management and institute management controls consistent with good stewardship? Thanks for all your service to the League.

Sincerely,

Louie Flanery, Mayor
