24 Youngsters Forsake School To Earn Their Christmas Money

"Please, sir, we want to get out of school next week. We want to work and get some Christmas money."

The lad, apparently 15 years old, dressed in his everyday raiment, which was none too good, spoke without a trace of self-confidence or embarassment. His "we" included another lad, of about the same age, who stood in the background and shifted nervously on the balls of his feet. A blue jersey, somewhat the worse for wear, was tucked about his throat.

It was in the office of the Board of Education that the lads stood. The time was ten days ago.

"You want to get some Christmas money? Well, what do you expect to do?" they were asked.

"We don't know yet. Mother said for us to come down here and get permission from you to get out of school. Then we will go out and look for something to do. There ought to be somewhere we can go, 'cause everybody's busy now."

The permission was granted them by Superintendent Cassidy. With the written slips, which would enable them to secure employment, clutched tightly in their hands, they passed out of the door, but not before leaving a cheery "Thank you, very much. We know mother will be glad."

Twenty-four pupils of the schools, both boys and girls, secured similar certificates so they could work last week during the rush and make "a little money for Christmas." By law the children are not permitted employment under the ages of 16 without such permission, and Superintendent Cassidy was glad to grant it in deserving cases.

The pupils were employed in many of the stores—the boys as doorkeepers and errand boys and the girls in the 5 and 10 cents stores.

Other children who desire to work during the coming week, while they are out of school for the holidays, may get similar written permission from the Board of Education. The permission will be granted by Mr. Cassidy or J. Sherman Porter, attendance officer.

NEGRO BADLY WOUNDS ANOTHER OVER WAGER

Frank Broadus in Jail After Traveling 400 Miles to Be With Family

After having traveled more than 400 miles to spend the holidays with his family here, Frank Broadus, negro, will spend Christmas Day in a cell at the police station as a result of shooting Odie Keyes, negro, over a wager on a card game at Felix Payton's saloon on West Vine Street yesterday afternoon.

Broadus is now charged with malicious shooting and wounding, but this may be changed to murder, as Keyes is lying at the point of death in St. Joseph's Hospital.

According to Broadus, he was standing near a table where a card game was in progress, when Keyes came up beside him and offered to bet a half a dollar on the game. The money was put up and after the game was over an argument ensued, both men claiming they had won.

"Finally I backed away from the table," said Broadus, "saying to the other man, 'well, then, are you really going to take the money?' He said 'yes,' and, throwing out my hands, I said, 'all right.' With that he started one, putting his hand in his side pants pocket. I didn't know what he was going to do, so I pulled out my pistol and shot him. Then I left, and after going several blocks threw the gun away."

Broadus was arrested by Chief of Detectives Brown and Detectives Veal and Thompson. He declared he had never known Keyes, but it was said last night at the Payton saloon that the men had had a grudge for some time.

HOLIDAY RAILROAD TRAFFIC IS HEAVY

December passenger traffic on the various railroads entering Lexington will show a heavy increase, according to H. C. King, city passenger agent of the Queen & Crescent Route, yesterday. Mr. King bases his estimate on the heavy traffic on local trains, apparently much heavier than for the holiday season of other years. In many cases it has been necessary to add extra cars to the local trains to accommodate the increased traffic.

A HOLIDAY THOUGHT

Under a policy with the MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, you can guarantee a Christmas check to your wife or daughters, or both for a certain number of years or for life. Life Insurance becomes a form of immortality, therefore:

"At Christmas-tide the open hand
Scatters its bounty o'er sea and land,
And none are left to grieve alone,
For Love is Heaven and claims its own."

For instance A $1,000 policy will pay $92.50 when death occurs to defray immediate expenses, and on each Christmas day for twenty years, $50 will be delivered to the wife or daughter. Or the Fifty Dollars can be equally divided with the wife and daughters. A wife and three daughters for instance would receive each a separate check for $12.50 for 20 Christmases after you are gone. Each check will be increased by a dividend too, arising from surplus interest earned by the Company over the 3½ upon which the installments are computed. The Company for the past sixteen years has paid installments upon a basis of 4.75% interest earned.

Apply at once for rates and records. Most any combination can be arranged to suit your case.

The Mutual Benefit has been doing business in the State seventy years and can be trusted to give even more than the Bond calls for.
